

ATLANTIC HAVEN

No hurricane

Karen Murray

WHEN I was in school, one lesson that made me sit up and take notice was when I was in business class and the teacher was droning on about early adapters and laggards.

I, of course, would never dream of being put into the latter category, as I would like to think I would be somewhat of a trendsetter rather than a follower of sheep.

The same can be said of those trailblazers at Hamilton Osborne King & Savills, as next week sees the launch of Ponta Bicuda, the first self-contained lifestyle resort

Where? Ponta Bicuda, Santiago, Cape Verde Islands

How much? Prices range from €75,000 for an apartment to €1.6m for a top of the range private villa

Who? HOK International & Savills, Dublin. Launching next Friday and Saturday, November 17-18, at the Westbury Hotel, Dublin

How? Bookings now being taken

Why buy? A unique opportunity to invest in a 5-star leisure resort with six different villages planned for Santiago, the capital of the stunning Cape Verde islands.
